

Secure Endpoint Management

The largest attack surface is your endpoints consisting of the systems, consoles, and laptops in use by you and your employees. From phishing emails, malicious websites, and internal threats, robust endpoint security is your first defense. There are so many decisions to make about endpoint software, implementation, and ongoing management. Perceived complexity has stalled businesses from moving beyond basic anti-virus, and they continue to miss out on the benefits of endpoint detection and response capabilities. TECH LOCK provides a complete solution that includes all the software, hardware, and 24x7 security operations that detects and responds to incidents.

TECH LOCK provides full endpoint detection and response without disrupting business:

- Security protection of endpoints on and off your network.
- Protect remote endpoints without the need for constant updates.
- Detect and diffuse file-less malware and other advanced threat tactics through behavioral analytics.
